Snap-on Enhances Fast-Track Guided Component Test Images in Newest Software Release

LINCOLNSHIRE, Ill., Nov. 28, 2023 – With its latest diagnostic software release, Snap-on® has added more location images and larger connector diagrams to its exclusive Fast-Track® Guided Component Test feature to give professional automotive technicians increased confidence and certainty in their diagnosis.

“Fast-Track Guided Component Tests take oscilloscope testing of individual electrical components or circuits to the next level by providing vehicle-specific, visually illustrated test procedures that show exactly where to connect, how to connect and what the results should look like,” said Helen Cox, marketing and client services director, Snap-on Diagnostics. “With our newest software upgrade, we have enhanced the images and added crisp looking connector diagrams to further streamline the diagnostic process so technicians can quickly get to the root cause of the problem.”

ZEUS® and TRITON™ series products as well as VERUS® Edge, MODIS Edge™, Vantage® Legend and Vantage® Ultra with the latest software contain the new component test image enhancements.
